ACADEMIC MINI PROJECTS UNDERTAKEN:

- Project 1: Automated plant watering system:

Nowadays, despite being an agricultural country, the number of people who die of hunger is still quite high. Access to food seems to be difficult, as price and quantity of food is still beyond the capability of the lower middle class and lower class. Irrigation induced Crop failure is a major cause of crop loss every year, and in the age of water crisis, this has been elevated to great levels. In order to keep up with increasing demand, farmers are required to increase crop efficiency, by rapidly advancing technologies. In order to handle Irrigation issues, this system has been devised and implemented. Usually, farmers need large scale manpower to irrigate large lands simultaneously. However Automatic Plant Watering System is an automatic system that facilitates automated irrigation of lands simultaneously, upon need.

- Project 2: Automated Engine Locking System:

Micro controller based on automatic engine locking system for drunk and drivers. Using technology to inform the relatives are owners of the vehicle about the alcoholic consumption. E T's technology to find out the location of the vehicle is used. In this project we have developed a real time model that can automatically lock the engine when a drunk and driver tries to drive a car, by fitting this alcohol sensor into the car, we can save guard the life of the driver and also the remaining passengers.
